Schell’s Brewery

Founded by German immigrant August Schell in 1860, the iconic August Schell Brewing Company is the second oldest family-owned brewery in America and the oldest brewery in Minnesota. All Schell’s and Grain Belt products are brewed here.
AUGUST SCHELL BREWING CO

This “must-see” nestled amongst the trees in Flandrau State Park alongside the meandering Cottonwood River, has free-roaming peacocks, a deer enclosure, water feature, flower-lined paths and an outdoor beer garden, as well as a German-style Rathskellar tap room to entice visitors as well as locals. Take a tour, visit the 2,000 sq. ft. part museum-part gift shop, or simply have a quintessential New Ulm experience enjoying nature while sampling one or two of the many beer selections.

A popular gathering place for the famous festivals in New Ulm, there are many opportunities to see what’s brewing at Schell’s.

THE STARKELLER

If you’re looking for champagne dreams, Starkeller Brewing Co., a division of Schell’s on the west end of New Ulm, is your weekend destination with a twist.

On tap are craft beers with sour power, more reminiscent of champagne with fruit overtones. The taproom itself has a museum of artifacts including a cut-in-half moonshine still from the Prohibition era.

Ten restored 1936 cypress wood lagering tanks, towering 12 feet tall, age this unique addition of mixed-culture Berliner weisse beers and are on display providing an authentic brewery experience. When you come to the Starkeller you’ll have the unique experience of sitting at the bar made of an old copper kettle from the brewery.

And when you see the tin on the back wall — that came from the farm that once stood in its place. The 10 tanks that line the taproom are the beers you’ll be toasting with a year from now. Get your friends together and plan your next classic New Ulm outing.

A FAMILY DESTINATION

When visitors come to New Ulm for a weekend or day trip, they are in for a surprise.

Not only is New Ulm a German-experience destination with its variety of festivals, but it’s also a fun-filled adventure for families. From the laid back to down-right dizzying to the delicious, pack up the family (bring grandma too!) and head toward the Laura Ingalls Wilder Historic Highway until you see the beautiful Minnesota River Valley with its surrounding bluffs. Keep an eye out for deer, geese, swans, ducks and the occasional opossums that also call the New Ulm area their home.

Hungry? Order up! Have a quick hot dog or burger and fries, dine on world-famous ribs and kraut, enjoy gourmet burgers, steaks, ethnic cuisine and unique deli items. Pack a picnic from our many grocery stores or grab some takeout.

Then hit one of New Ulm’s 40 parks! Play like a pirate or spot eagles at Riverside Park and meet Gertie the Goose; meander around German Park’s flowered paths and eat by the fountain or in the shade of the bandstand; or head up the hill and have fun under the watchful eye of Hermann the German in Hermann Heights Park. You can even take the stairs to the top of the monument for a breathtaking, panoramic view of the town and its surroundings. Not for the faint of heart but well worth the climb!

Make sure the kids bring their blades, bikes or skateboards to roll down the 13 miles of paved trail that cuts through woods, town and parks. Or, for the dare-devils in the family, head to the skate park and jump off some energy.

After that it’s time for a swim! Suit up and head to Flandreau State Park to splash in the large sand pool, and enjoy the beauty of the Cottonwood River and surrounding woods. If you visit in fall or winter, explore the trails on foot, snowshoes, or cross country skis.

Got teens? New Ulm is a boutique haven for female fashion mavens. A great mother-daughter day trip.

While you’re downtown, you might as well take in some local history with a self-guided walking tour, then stroll through the Brown County Historical Society Museum or the Music Hall of Fame.

If you’re up for a something wild, then New Ulm’s long-lived motorcycle club, the Flying Dutchmen, can take you along for the ride with one of their many cycle events, including flat-track races and hill climbs.

Your family fun time isn’t complete until you have refreshments at the iconic Schell’s Brewery. Bring home souvenirs from the gift shop, take a tour, discover hidden gnomes, enjoy the gardens and meet & greet a peacock or two.

Our nationally recognized community has been cited in several state and national publications including Minnesota Monthly and USA Today. Plus, it’s also great to know that New Ulm is in the top 2% of the safest cities in the state.

There are plenty more activities and events to participate in year around whether for a friends’ get-together, date night, or romantic weekend. Enjoy the specialty shops, bars and nightlife, live theater, and festivals galore.

Visit newulm.com for what to do, where to stay and more.

“While we make quick stops in New Ulm a few times a year on our way to visit family in the Marshall area, I had the delightful opportunity to spend two nights at a New Ulm bed and breakfast with my four sisters, two sisters-in-law and mom recently. We loved the B&B, plus enjoyed treatments at a downtown spa, browsed the stores (found some great items!) and spent time relaxing in the parks. In the evening we visited the local winery. It was a perfect getaway!

NEWULM.COM
‘BASEBALL CAPITAL OF MINNESOTA’

New Ulm is known for all things German: music, Schell’s beer, and Hermann. Also on that list is baseball.

2020 will be a banner year for baseball in New Ulm. Historic Johnson Park will reopen after receiving a $1.4 million facelift. The Minnesota State Amateur Baseball Tournament returns to New Ulm after a 30-year hiatus. Johnson Park, along with its younger sibling Mueller Park, will host the popular tournament beginning Aug. 21, running weekends through Labor Day.

New Ulm has hosted the State Tournament five times. In 1953, over 31,000 fans attended, at the height of town team baseball’s popularity. During the 1958 tournament, the St. Paul Dispatch called New Ulm the “Baseball Capital of Minnesota.”

New Ulm’s settlers were German. English pioneers in nearby villages brought baseball with them from out East. It didn’t take long before New Ulmers took to the game. By 1873, “Germania” was travelling to Sleepy Eye by rail to play, a keg of beer to the winner.

Through the decades, many teams played around town. New Ulm fielded the Hornets, Ramblers, Tomahawks, and probably a few forgotten. There were ballfields by Turner Hall, near Hauenstein and Schell’s Brewery, and at the fairgrounds.

In 1935, city leaders with the Works Progress Administration came up with a plan for a ballpark to be built in North German Park. With $9,000 in federal funds and $5,000 from New Ulm, Johnson Park opened on May 7, 1939, with a parade. On July 12, the first night game in Minnesota outside the Twin Cities was held.

Johnson Park was named for Fred Johnson. Fred is credited with the vision that is New Ulm’s park system. “Johnson’s Field” became Johnson Park. Eighty years later, it remains one of the most recognizable baseball venues in the Midwest.

1939 was also the inaugural season of the New Ulm Brewers. The Brewers joined the Western Minny League and won state championships in 1941 and 1943. Through the forties and fifties, crowds in the thousands came to see local stars like Hank Nicklasson, Otis Loose and Stan Wilfahrt.

New Ulm hosted two amateur teams for years. The Millers were made up of local boys while the Brewers played semi-pro ball. In 1969, the Kaiserhoff team began play. The Kaiserhoff team won the state championship in 1980 with a talented roster that included Terry, Tom and Tim Steinbach. In a memorable day for New Ulm, four local boys were chosen in the 1983 Major League draft: Terry and Tom Steinbach, Doug Palmer, and Jeff Schugel.

Besides town ball, Johnson Park has been home to the successful New Ulm Eagle, Cathedral Greyhound and MVL Charger high school teams. The American Legion began fielding a team in 1931 and the VFW in 1967.

Baseball and New Ulm. The tradition will continue in 2020 as more memories are made on the diamond.

Article by Randy Krzmarzick
New Ulm has been known as the City of Festivals, but no matter the time of year, you’ll find a reason to link your arms with your neighbor and schunkel!
FASCHING
FEBRUARY 22: Fasching, or German Mardi Gras, developed in the Middle Ages as the last festival allowed by the church before entering the somber season of Lent. New Ulm carries on the tradition with a day of good food, good music and costumed revelry at the Best Western Plus Conference Center.

SCHELL’S BOCK FEST
MARCH 7: Schell’s Bock Fest takes place outdoors on the grounds of Schell’s brewery. Enjoy live music, an award-winning beer or root beer beside a roaring bonfire, with a few thousand friends. Partake in the Bock Medallion Hunt to win cash and prizes.

BAVARIAN BLAST
JULY 16-19: A weekend-long German-American Music Festival in July features crowd-pleasing regional bands and New Ulm’s own Ambassadors of Goodwill — the Concord Singers, topped off with schnitzels, foodie treats, Schell’s beers and 1919 Root Beer. Uniquely German contests, free admission for kids and the famous Bavarian Blast parade on Sunday at 12:30 PM. Pre-Blast is on Thursday night!

HERMANNFEST
SEPTEMBER 12: Come celebrate Hermann the German! The party is at Hermann Heights Park in the shadow of the 102-foot monument and below in Harman Park. German music is performed, and German and American food available. The New Ulm Municipal Band concert includes a cannon shot with 11 guns at 6 PM, and a fireworks show is at 8:30 PM.

OKTOBERFEST
OCTOBER 2-3 & 9-10: Rated as one of the best Oktoberfest celebrations in the nation and modeled after one of the world’s most famous celebrations in Munich, Germany. Celebrate Oktoberfest in historic downtown, Best Western Plus, Morgan Creek Vineyards and Schell’s Brewery the first two full weekends in October.

'TIS THE SEASON

It's beginning to look a lot like an old fashioned Christmas in downtown New Ulm as the snow falls and real Christmas trees adorned with cheerful red bows line the sidewalk.

Kick off the shopping season at the Holiday Shopping Opener November 6-8 during opening weekend of deer season. The New Ulm Specialty Shops have joined together for open houses, tasty treats, events and giveaways.

The 15th Annual New Ulm Women's Expo & Craft Fair will be held on November 7, from 9am to 2pm. Over 100 tables of crafts, home businesses, wellness, and a variety of other vendors all under one roof. Check out newulm.com or inquire at the Visitors Center (1 N Minnesota Street) for a list of vendors.

The GnomeMade Artisan Market held November 5-8, offers handmade and vintage items of all kinds at 16 historic locations and charming artisan homes. Makes for a perfect weekend getaway and curious shopping adventure.

On the Friday evening after Thanksgiving, New Ulm welcomes Santa to town with a Parade of Lights. The 32nd Annual Parade of Lights will be held November 27, at 6pm. Over 60 units, all decked out with thousands of twinkling lights, makes their way through historic downtown. Live music, open houses, shopping and more! Watch the official Christmas tree lighting ceremony at City Hall after the parade.

A TRAVEL DESTINATION

Diane Schweke
Buffalo, MN

A trip to New Ulm is an opportunity to celebrate my husband’s German heritage. We enjoy the Oktoberfest activities – listening to the music, especially the legendary Concord Singers and the Narren. Plus the scenery and fall colors. Each year I collect a new pin for my father-in-law’s Tyrolean hat.

Orin and Dot Schueller
Sun City, AZ

We like to attend the German festivals and events when there are different displays and stands downtown. We especially enjoy the Rathskeller bar at Turner Hall. We also like to get in on any sporting events that happen to be going on when we are in town.

Alexander Roth
New Ulm, MN

On the weekends, I love meeting friends at The Retz or listening to music at Morgan Creek Vineyards, with a view of the picture perfect oak tree. If friends come to visit, the Schell’s Brewery is a must. I also take them to the Hermann Monument to take in the panoramic view of the Minnesota River Valley.

Sure, New Ulm’s got some of Minnesota’s best bratwurst and sauerkraut, sauerbraten and spaetzle, and a brewery full of German beer to wash it down; but New Ulm’s dining scene doesn’t start and end with German cuisine. You’ll also find Mexican, Chinese, and everything in between, in family-style eateries, fast food and upscale dining.

Heart of New Ulm

The award-winning Heart of New Ulm Project has made significant changes in New Ulm since its inception 11 years ago. The restaurant program aims to improve the availability, identification and promotion of affordable healthier foods – especially fruits and vegetables. The project partners with locally owned, non-chain restaurants that are committed to serving the same great-tasting food, while making it easier for people to eat healthier.

RESULTS: Restaurants learned that healthy items are easy to make as well as profitable. They started offering more salads, fruits and vegetables. 94% of consumers agreed that more healthy choices are now available. heartofnewulm.com

THAT’S MY STORY

PEOPLE CHOOSE TO LIVE, WORK, OR RETIRE IN NEW ULM FOR A VARIETY OF REASONS. THESE RESIDENTS TELL THEIR NEW ULM STORY.

CLIFF AND SHERYLL VATH, RETIRES

Why do you choose to live/retire in New Ulm?
They always say “home is where the heart is.” We realized after just a few visits to the town while we still lived in Iowa, that New Ulm has a huge heart.

What is special about this community?
The community genuinely cares about the town and is very proud of its heritage. It is displayed in the congeniality of the of the town residents that you meet in the streets and events. Everyone from the mayor, chamber, and their staffs have a purpose and sense of direction that maintains the positive image. They walk the talk and truly work hard to ensure New Ulm continues to thrive and is a great place to live and raise a family. An example is of this is the information posted on the town benches.

SCOTT AND JILL KNISLEY FAMILY

Why do you choose to live in New Ulm?
There were two main reasons we chose to stay in New Ulm, our jobs and family. As time went on and we decided to have a family of our own, we fell a smaller town with family close by was important as we raised our children. Now with three boys ages 1, 3, and 6 we are glad we made the choice to stay here.

What would you tell a family considering locating in New Ulm?
The community is strong in heritage and tradition. New Ulm provides a culture that encourages its residents to get involved. Living in New Ulm allows us to enjoy simple life style.

CHAD AND LORI WENGERT

Why do you choose to live in New Ulm?
New Ulm is filled with people from all walks of life. Yet everyone is like one big family.

What do you enjoy doing here?
Chad and I enjoy being involved with the Narren, New Ulm Battery, Riverside Environmental Learning Center, River and community clean ups, learning New Ulm history and running the Facebook group New Ulm Now and Then. There are so many wetlands and nature areas around also for us to do nature photography and we enjoy doing programs and outings to get the area youth outdoors. We are fortunate to have Flandrau state park with its trails and pool, Schell’s Brewery, where we can get up close to deer and peacocks, and just enjoy the beauty of the grounds along with the many city parks, art centers, sport and exercise facilities.
WELCOME HOME
YOUR DREAM. OUR PASSION.
Our team is proud to be New Ulm’s trusted real estate team so that you can buy or sell your home with confidence.

COMMUNITY

CITY GOVERNMENT

The City of New Ulm, incorporated in 1855, comprises about 10.5 square miles. New Ulm operates under a Council-Manager form of local government, whereby the five-member City Council has policy-making and legislative authority: day-to-day administration of government is the appointed City Manager’s responsibility.

The Mayor is not a voting member of the City Council, but exercises certain duties and responsibilities under Home Rule Charter authority. One City Council member is elected at-large to act as President of the City Council. The remaining councilors are elected to represent the city’s four wards.

The City Council appoints several boards and commissions to act in an advisory capacity to the Council in specified areas. For a listing of advisory commissions, visit the city’s website, www.ci.new-ulm.mn.us.

The New Ulm Public Utility Commission (PUC) operates five utility enterprises: electric production and distribution, steam heating district, natural gas distribution, water distribution, and wastewater treatment. Members of the PUC are appointed by the Mayor, subject to City Council confirmation.

HOUSING

Our forefathers’ original plat served our community well for about 130 years, providing a grid system of homes with alleys. Since then, a number of areas have been developed to offer a mix of housing options, and several private developments and a new affordable housing acreage are currently in the building stage.

New Ulm has many beautiful, historic homes, with several listed on the historic register. Residents pride themselves in the German tradition of well-kept yards, gardens and flower-beds, so a trip around town should be well rewarded.

HEALTHY COMMUNITY

New Ulm is a health-oriented city and being physically active is easy, safe and fun! From the 13-mile bike trail and outdoor fitness equipment in three of our local parks, there’s no reason to not hit the ground running, rolling or strolling. Community initiatives include maps of safe biking and walking routes and safety and health education activities.
SUPPORTING A CULTURE OF WELLNESS

Heart of New Ulm (HOUN) project is a nationally recognized collaborative partnership of the New Ulm community, New Ulm Medical Center (part of Allina Health), and the Minneapolis Heart Institute Foundation. Since 2009 the project is changing the way health care — especially preventive care — is viewed and delivered across the country. Its aim is to improve the health, well-being and quality of life for residents through education, resources, initiatives and partnerships. Ultimately, the goal is to empower people to take responsibility for their own health in a supportive environment and a culture of wellness.

Through activities, education, policies and environmental changes, people who live or work in New Ulm are supported in their efforts to get more physically active, eat more fruits and vegetables, lose weight, quit smoking, manage stress and make other healthier lifestyle choices. Efforts involve the entire community—from health care organizations, providers and individuals, to worksites, faith-based organizations, public health, local government, and civic groups and organizations.

Initially started as a 10-year research project designed to reduce heart attacks, the project continues today as a community-owned health initiative targeting three significant and widespread health issues:

- Healthy lifestyles across the lifespan
- Mental health
- Addiction and risky use of substances

HOUN is guided by a 12-member community leadership team, along with more than 80 community volunteers representing 35 organizations on 11 action teams.

Preliminary results are strong and the community is improving its health.

A five-year outcomes study published in the American Heart Journal reveals improvements that are greater than trends seen in the rest of the nation. In addition to significant improvements in biometric measurements, community members have made a host of healthful lifestyle changes, from dietary changes to becoming more physically active.

The project has the potential to change the way health care — especially preventive care — is viewed and delivered across the country. To view videos and learn more about the project visit heartofnewulm.com and mnhpopulationhealth.org.

From its main station at the corner of Broadway and Eighth North Street, and a second station in Goosetown, the New Ulm Fire Department stands ready to protect New Ulm and area residents. The department has a 150-year history and will celebrate that this year.

The fire department is a dedicated team of 39 firefighters. They’ve been with the department from merely months to 40-plus years. When they join the department, firefighters are assigned to one of two engine companies (one at each station) or to the ladder/truck company. The engine companies are the first attack teams, with the ladder company providing vertical support.

All firefighters are volunteers, with the exception of Fire Chief Paul Macho who is a full-time employee of the City of New Ulm. Aaron Wilfahrt is First Assistant Chief, and Missy Visser is the Second Assistant Chief.

All firefighters receive extensive training. Before joining the department, prospective firefighters take Firefighter 1, Firefighter 2 and Hazmat classes through a technical school. They continue to take other classes to become licensed firefighters, as required to be Minnesota career firefighters.

Firefighters also take part in additional training at monthly sessions at the fire station. Training topics include pump operations, live burns, propane fires, ice and boat rescue, rope and hill rescue, vehicle extrication, CPR, OSHA courses and more.

The department serves 125 square miles. In addition to the City of New Ulm, it serves three full townships in Brown County — Milford, Sigel and Cottonwood — and two partial townships across the river to the north — Lafayette and West Newton. The coverage area goes all the way to the Harkin Store on the Bottom Road (Co. Rd. 21).

Handling an average of about 125 calls a year, the department responds to a variety of things. About half of the calls are actual fires, with the rest being rescues, silent calls, false alarms, gas leaks, stranded in elevators, etc.

Firefighters also volunteer their services to community activities and mutual aid to other communities.

CELEBRATING A PROUD HERITAGE

New Ulm’s volunteer fire department was formed in January 1870 when 46 citizens pledged to join and fulfill the duties of a firefighter. A large force pump — that took strong muscles to operate — was purchased that year. Equipment has been replaced regularly over the years.

The NUFD will celebrate its 150-year history with ongoing celebrations in 2020. While the main celebration will be Sept 19-20, other special events will take place in conjunction with activities during the year. A 5K will be held May 30, and the group also plans to work with the Polar Plunge.

The September celebration will kick off with the annual firemen’s dance on Saturday evening. Sunday’s features will be a firemen’s parade — ending at Turner Hall on State Street — followed by a picnic celebration.

Macho and Visser encourage interested residents to follow the department’s Facebook page for updates as additional information becomes available.

‘NEW’ SCHOOL BENEFITS
STUDENTS, COMMUNITY

Although it’s in its fourth year of use, New Ulm residents still think of the senior high school at 1600 Oak Street as the “new high school.” Built 50 years after the previous “new” school—which is now the Middle School—the facility provides benefits for both students and the community.

The building and its surrounding athletic facilities are used “almost 24/7,” according to District 88 Superintendent Jeff Bertrang.

A $1 million private donation made the fine arts auditorium especially attractive for arts events. That donation provided wide, comfortable seating with extra leg room, upgraded sound, and lighting systems, great acoustics, and more.

In addition to 35 classrooms and learning areas in the building, the school has a large choir and band complex—adjacent to the auditorium—and a complete vocational wing.

The building was “designed primarily for kids,” Bertrang noted. Before its construction, the district had three buildings, six temporary structures—and not enough room. Seventh through 12th grades were packed into the same building.

Adding the new building for grades 9-12 allowed the district to “get it right” with age-appropriate curriculum. Just as important was providing the right learning in the middle school building, which is now fifth through eighth grades. With the restructuring, New Ulm’s Washington Elementary School became the Early Learning Center for ages 3-5, putting pre-K and kindergarten under one roof, along with Head Start.

“By putting this here, we were able to move things around for the different ages and learning levels,” Bertrang said. “Our goal is to be the regional educational center of excellence in New Ulm and the area.”

The high school houses about 700 students and 50 staff on a daily basis. Some are “shared-time kids,” coming from other schools for instruction.

Curriculum includes college courses offered through Minnesota State University, Mankato and Southwest State University, Marshall. Advanced Placement courses are also offered.

New this year is the Eagle Enterprise program. It’s a student-run manufacturing business where students fill different roles—marketing, production and more. Eagle Enterprises contracts with local businesses to complete projects, such as a replacing dumpster bottoms for River Valley Sanitation or building decks and sheds for other companies.

Before the completion of the new facility, the majority of the district’s athletic events were held on city-owned athletic fields, which the school had to rent—and schedule around other users. With its own facilities, the school can add home touches to the fields and use them at will. Having artificial turf for football and soccer allows the district to host section and state games. Spectators have a positive impact on the community as people shop, gas up their cars and eat out.
